

Student Name:

Student ID:

Assignment ID: U1L6BLE Rev: 1 Page 1 of 4

Week 6B Lit Example Worksheet

COMPOUND PRESSURE IN CAESAR AND MACBETH

Purpose: Apply Week 6B compound tools to Julius Caesar and Macbeth. Separate either/or and if/then form from fact and persuasion.

Directions: Use the Lit Example Reader. Do not treat emotional force as proof.

Part 1: Brutus's Either/Or

Question 1.1

State Brutus's either/or choice in plain English. Identify both branches.

Part 1 Q1

Question 1.2

Name at least one live option the either/or leaves out. Why does that omitted option matter for a careful listener?

Part 1 Q2

Student Name:

Student ID:

Assignment ID: U1L6BLE Rev: 1 Page 2 of 4

Part 2: Loaded Terms and Fact Pressure

Question 2.1

Which word or pair of words in Brutus's speech most needs to be fixed before the either/or can fairly force a choice? Explain.

Part 2 Q1

Question 2.2

Even if the either/or form were cleaned up, what factual claim in Brutus's speech would still need proof before the killing is justified to a careful Roman?

Part 2 Q2

Student Name:

Student ID:

Assignment ID: U1L6BLE Rev: 1 Page 3 of 4

Part 3: Macbeth Conditionals

Question 3.1

Reconstruct one if/then pressure from Passage 2. Label the antecedent and the consequent.

Part 3 Q1

Question 3.2

A character treats the thane of Cawdor title as support for the greater promise of kingship. Explain why affirming a later success does not by itself prove that the whole prophecy chain is established.

Part 3 Q2

Student Name:

Student ID:

Assignment ID: U1L6BLE Rev: 1 Page 4 of 4

Part 4: Final Diagnosis

Question 4.1

Compare the two passages: name the main compound form in each (either/or or if/then) and state one thing that remains unproved in each case.

Part 4 Q1

Question 4.2

In one short paragraph, explain why a vivid compound claim can feel necessary without being sound. Use one detail from Caesar or Macbeth.

Part 4 Q2